What types of licences apply?

a) Blanket Licence requirements:
Wits has a Blanket Licence Agreement with the Dramatic, Artistic and Literary Rights Organization (DALRO), which streamlines copyright procedures. Lecturers are responsible for applying for permission via the online Info-Ed (RIMS) Copyright System for all copyright material used in coursework packs, placed on Short Loan or in Departmental Resource Centres; placed on SAKAI or other e-learning platforms, or for multiple copies converted to Braille. This applies to allpen Licence courses. Applications should be done when compiling teaching material or very soon afterwards. The closing date for input of all material used in a year is 15 NOVEMBER. Lecturers or tutors may not reproduce and distribute copyright material via flashsticks, CDs, DVDs or other digital formats.

b) Transactional Licence requirements (for Short Courses):
Separate transactional licences are required for copyright material used in coursework packs or on e-learning platforms for non-FTE subsidised short courses and for staff training manuals, as well as for digitisation purposes; reproduction of multiple copies from online resources; or for works exceeding the limits of the Blanket Licence or excluded from the Blanket Licence (see: http://libguides.wits.ac.za/content.php?pid=227586&sid=1986342).
Ideally, these need to be applied for before reproducing the material, in case permission is denied. Applications for transactional licences are done via the same online copyright system, but separate quotations and invoices need to be obtained from DAL RO/rightsholders via the Scholarly Communications & Copyright Services Office.

Can e-resources on the Internet be copied?
You may copy articles/extracts of these works in terms of 'fair dealing'. Many of the e-resource licences now allow printed and electronic coursework packs to be made, without having to complete a Copyright Form. To check the licence conditions, please email Denise.Nicholson@wits.ac.za. When using these e-resources for e-learning purposes, please use the hyperlinks (not the scanned articles) on SAKAI or other e-learning tools, to avoid duplication of copyright fees.

Who pays for copyright?
All students are levied with an annual copyright fee. The Scholarly Communications Librarian is responsible for handling the payment of copyright fees to DALRO and other rightsholders. Schools are responsible for paying for transactional licences obtained for non-FTE subsidised short course material or for staff training manuals.

How does Wits deal with copyright infringement?
Any staff or students who infringe copyright or plagiarise will be disciplined in terms of the University Disciplinary Code. Rights-owners may also take civil or criminal action against infringers.

Useful websites:
- Wits Copyright Guidelines for Staff & Students
  http://libguides.wits.ac.za/Wits_Copyright_Guidelines
- Copyright & Related Issues
  http://libguides.wits.ac.za/Copyright_and_Related_Issues
- Plagiarism, Citations & Referencing Styles
  http://libguides.wits.ac.za/plagiarism_citation_and_referencing
- Open Access, A2K & Scholarly Communication
  http://libguides.wits.ac.za/openaccess_a2k_scholarly_communication
- Open Educational Resources
  http://libguides.wits.ac.za/Open_Educational_Resources
- Scholarly Research & Related Resources
  http://libguides.wits.ac.za/Scholarly_Research_Resources
- Scholarly Communication/Publishing
  http://libguides.wits.ac.za/Scholarly_Communication/Publishing
- Zotero
  http://libguides.wits.ac.za/zotero
- Tumitin.com
  http://elearn.wits.ac.za/tumitin

For information or advice:
Mrs Denise Nicholson
Scholarly Communications Librarian
1st Floor Waterkloof Library
Tel: 011-717-1929 Fax: 011-717-1948
Email: Denise.Nicholson@wits.ac.za
www.wits.ac.za

The Library
Scholarly Communications & Copyright Services Office

Copyright Guidelines for Academic Staff

The onus is on you to be copyright correct.